VOL. XVI. NO. 90. CHARLEROI, WASHINGTON CO., PA. WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1915. ONE CENT

TWO COUNCILMEN APPOINTED; PECULIAR QUESTION COMES UP

May be Necessary Now to Elect Four Instead of Three in November

COUNCILMAN WELTNER QUITS

Removal to Monongahela the Cause--Resignation of Councilman Rickey Presented Some Time Ago is Duly Accepted.

William H. Calvert was elected to council to complete the unexpired term of John K. Rickey, resigned and George W. Moody was elected to complete the unexpired term of C. W. Weltner, also resigned at the adjourned meeting of council Tuesday evening at the borough building. Mr Weltner's resignation was presented at the meeting and acepted on account of his removal to Monongahela. Mr. Rickey's resignation which had been presented several weeks ago was read and accepted.

Councilman Rickey's term would have expired January 1, so that means the new councilman to take his place will serve to that time. Ordinarily Councilman Weltner would have served a year longer. but acording to the muncipal law it seems that the councilman appointed to take his place, which in this instance is Mr. Moody, will serve only to January 1. This signifies simply that four councilmen instead of three will have to be elected at the general election in November, and that the "sticker" system will have to be used.

Council has not asked Borough Solicitor D. M. McCloskey yet for an opinion on the length of service of Mr. Moody and he has not prepared one, but he stated to the Mail that it seemed the term would end with the present year and that a councilman will have to be elected in November to take his place. It is supposed that Mr. Moody will seek election regularly to the place. and there are others with the councilmanic bee in their bonnet.

BRIDGE OVER THIRD NOW A PROBABILITY

Lookout Avenue Residents Petition for Such an Improvement---If Constructed Will Add Cost to Third Street Work

That further cost will be added to the already expensive Third street improvement seems probable from the proposed constrction of a bridge over Lookout avenue to connect with the higher of the two Third streets. At their meeting Tesday night council discussed the matter of a bridge such as has been petitioned for by property owners of Lookout avenue. They failed to arrive at any definite conclusion, so finally took adjournment to meet with property holders at the site of the proposed bridge this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Then tonight the matter will be gone into deeply by council at an adjourned meeting with the hope of reaching an easy solution of what seems a difficult problem.

Third street is being improved from Lincoln avenue to Crest avenue by an arrangement providing for a double street, one with an easy ascending grade and the other with a steeper descending grade. A wall, which has been completed and paid for separates the two streets.

Lookout avenue property holders maintain that a bridge will be necessary in order to make it possible to reach the descending street over the wall as well as to form a good grade down Lookout to Third. They propose a bridge to the higher Third street from a point on Lookout south of Third. A petition for such an improvement was presented to council recently, signed, it is maintained by every property holder along Lookout avenue from First street to Third.

What the cost would be of such an improvement as Lookout avenue residents propose is not known. That matter will be decided later. The wall dividing the two Third streets cost a trifle more than $2,900.

BULLET STRIKES RIB; GREEG'S LIFE SAVED

Well Known Farmer of Roscoe Region Fires Toward His Heart Supposedly With Suicidal Intent, But Now is Expected to Live.

The fact that the bullet from his revolver struck his seventh rib and glanced aside from its course toward his heart probably saved John H. Gregg, aged 57 years and a well known farmer of near Roscoe from death this morning as a sppposed suicide.

Despondency is given as the cause of Gregg's act. Tuesday he about closed a deal for the sale of the farm which he had owned and upon which he had resided for a period of about 30 years. Whether this weighed upon his mind or whether there were other reasons are unknown. Anyhow this morning at about 10 o'clock he procured his revolver and went into the yard where he turned the gun toward his heart and drew the trigger. His wife found him there a moment later and dragged him into the house. A doctor was summoned from Roscoe to attend him.

It is believed that Mr. Gregg will live, his wound not being considered necessarily fatal. He is suffering from s hock. The bullet after s triking his rib took a course outward, lodging in his back. Mr. Gregg was not known to be a drinking man. He was well known throughout the river section.

Notice.

Sealed bids will be received by the Borough Clerk of Charleroi for grading, paving and curbing that portion of Sixth street lying between Crest and Meadow avenues.

Plans and specifications may be seen at the office of Borough Engineer. All bids to be in the hands of Borough clerk on or before October 12, at 8 o'clock p. m Council reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

With all members present council Tuesday evening at their adjourned meeting took up the ordinance for the grading and paving of Sixth street from Crest avenue to Meadow avenue and passed it finally. They took action in addition to ask for bids on the work to be in the hands of the proper borough authorities on or before Tuesday evening, October 12. Sixth street is to be the only street improved this fall, according to the present intensions of council. This signifies that the contract will be the final one of any importance awarded by the present council.

Assessment sheets for the paving of Meadow avenue from Fifth to Seventh streets and for the paving of Tenth street from McKean avenua to Lincoln avenue were presented by the borough engineer, and notices to property owners of the amount due for the paving were ordered sent out.

The resignation of Councilmen J. K. Rickey and C. W. Weltner as related in another column were taken up and accepted, with W. H. Calvert and George W. Moody being appointed to their places.

A request from the Bank of Charleroi was received asking permission to install a burglar gong in the borough building, with connecting wires at the bank. Permission was granted.

John B. Schafer, president of the Charleroi bathing beach association was present to present a statement of the receipts and disbursements of the association for the season just closed. Action was taken authorizing the placing of a street light on Oakland avenue between Fifth and Sixth streets. Adjournment was taken to meet Wednesday night.

FOUR MEN IN AUTOMOBILE HAVE MIRACULOUS ESCAPE IN TUMBLE

Car Goes Over Hill at Coal Centre And Drops 30 or 40 Feet to the Railroad.

Trouble with the stearing gear was blamed for an automobile containing four men with Tony Sapolis as the driver, to go o ver the hill to the railroad tracks near Coal Centre Tuesday noon.

Though the machine tumbled a distance of about 30 to 40 feet, none of the occupants was much injured and the car was not badly damaged.

The machine was righted after a time and driven back to Coal Centre. Attention of a physician was not needed for any one of the four. Their escape was considered miraculous.

ROADS IN SHAPE FOB THE WINTER

Contractors Trying to Finish up Whatever Possible Throughout County

VALLEY SECTION PROFITING

As the winter season approaches the contractors having charge of the various county roads under construction are bending their efforts if not to complete roads, to have them in condition for the winter. Several of the roads have been completed the present month. Among them are the Avella-Crosscreek road. John Hallam, contractor; the West Alexander-Dunsfort road, William Pickett & Co., and the Taylors Run road starting at the Roth brewery near Monongahela and extending for two miles towards the Bentleyville-Charleroi pike built by the Donora Construction company.

The only concrete road being built by the county, starting at the borough line at Midway and extending for a mile towards Candor is in charge of N. C. Hunter, who has completed the grading and is starting to put on the concrete.

The road between Eight-Four and Wylandville has been graded and the work of setting curb will be started this week. William Pickett & Co., has the contract.

An addition of a mile and a quarter is being built to the Beallsville-Fredericktown road of which two miles were completed last year. The completion of this road will connect Fredericktown and the Bealisville section by a road that can be traveled the year round. The firm of Piper & Hastings of Charleroi is the contractor.

An addition to the Taylors Run road of about a mile and a quarter which is being constructed will connect Monongahela and Bentleyville,

GOOD CHEER FOR REPUBLICANS

Returns from the primary contests in Philadelphia and Allegheny counties carry an encouraging message to every Republican in every other county in this state. The Republicans in Philadelphia and Allegheny counties polled an enormous vote last week.

The Republicans of those counties are certain to poll enormous votes at the coming general election and in that way are certain to put the disturbers and discontents out of the political running in every county in the state.

In both Philadelphia and Allegheny counties new blood has been infused into the Republican workers. New men have been chosen to contest for the many important places in those counties. The Republican workers have been encouraged by the return to their party of many voters who in recent contests strayed away to follow the political discontents and the Republican party throughout the entire state will profit largely by the party's harmony in Philadelphia and Allegheny counties.

NOT OVER BY A LONG SHOT

The turn of the tide in the great European war has not as a matter of of fact brought about very definite results and the end of the war is not yet. Germany, aided by Austria-Hungary is fighting nearly all Europe with more success than any neutral onlooker could have imagined possible a few months ago. Whether Germany's courage is the courage of a foolhardy monarch or the courage that is backed by a complete knowledge of resources and capabilities that makes the nation willing and eager to assume the great risk it has assumed is a question. From the general trend of affairs it would seem the latter is true, and if so it is going to take a long, long time for any participant in this world struggle to wear out.

"People are getting tired of being gouged," was the remark of a well known man when asked concerning the propriety of conducting such and such a scheme as a benefit. It is a fact, people are getting tired of submitting calmly and without question to schemes for such and such "worthy" move. Making people disgorge that some beneficient plan may be made a success—the kind of success to be determined by the financial returns—has become altogether too much of a habit. Charity begins at home, and if people would cultivate the art of giving wisely instead of indiscriminately their funds would go farther and accomplish more for movements worthy in reality as well as in name, while unworthy movements would perish.

One of the really good laws that has recently gone into force in this state is that prohibiting the sale of contaminated mattresses. A re-sale of a mattress that has been used by a person having any infectious or contagious disease is bound to carry with it extreme danger. The law should be rigidly enforced.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"Throw up your hands!" the robber said. The girl still held her ground and put a little powder on her nose. She rushed out in the street and stopped as autos flew around and put a little powder on her nose. A safe was falling from a floor just 19 stories high "Look out!" the workmen shouted as the girl came tripping by. She opened up her handbag and while others tried to fly she put a little powder on her nose.

One day the girl was ill and when the doctor said she'd die, she put a little powder on her nose. And just before she passed away she gave a little sigh and put a little powder on her nose. St. Peter met her at the gates and offered her his hand. "Step in," he said. "We welcome you where all's sublimely grand." "Excuse me just a moment," said the maiden and she put a little powder on her nose.—From an Exchange.

Little Molly had been very trying all day. That evening when her grown up sister was putting her to bed, she said she hoped the child would be a better girl tomorrow and not make everybody unhappy with her naughty temper.

Molly listened in silence, thought hard for a few moments and then said, wisely:

"Yes, when it's me it's temper, when it's you it's nerves."—Tit-Bits.

REPRODUCTION IS MADE EASY

A new optical method for making reproductions of sculptures consists in photographing the object from two or more points of view and then, with the cameras and lines of sight in exactly the same relative positions, projecting the images to an intersection on the modeling clay or block of marble from which the reproduction is to be made. While somewhat crude in its present state, this process, says Popular Mechanics, is one that apparently has great possibilities for future development. In making the reproduction the worker simply cuts away the material at any point until the corresponding points as projected from the different cameras coincide on the surface. As most sculptural objects do not have points that are sufficiently prominent for their coincidence to be determined with precision, it is proposed to use an additional apparatus for projecting a series of fine lines and letters on the object while it is being photographed. These lines and letters, of course, appear on the negative made by each of the cameras and are projected with the image. In this way the worker obtains a set of artificial points that are sharp and definite, and the coincidence of these is easily determined.

Fox Farms Fail.

Many failures in the new industry of fox farming in Alaska are recorded by E. Lester Jones, deputy commissioner of fisheries in the report on his recent investigation in Alaska for the department of commerce. He finds that the promise of big profits caused many to rush into the business, and small fortunes were sunk by men who did not understand the difficulties of the industry.

The rush to raise foxes, the commissioner says, was due to the exorbitant prices paid for live black and silver-gray foxes raised in Canada. These prices, he declares, did not indicate a healthy condition in the industry. Nevertheless there was a rush to raise foxes in Alaska in the hope of reaping big profits quickly. One of the chief reasons for the large majority of failures, according to the commissioner, was the government's system of leasing certain islands to prospective fox farmers at a minimum of $200 a year for five years. The figure proved too high.

IMPROVED BY MORE SLEEP

London Schoolchildren Recently Made the Subject of Some Interesting Experiments.

There are some interesting conclusions in the first report of the recently appointed official psychologist to the London county council—a post which is, I believe, unique in this country. Mr. Cyril Burt's chief work is in applying tests to backward children in the schools to ascertain whether or not they are suitable for tuition in the special classes for the mentally defective. Mr. Burt has examined over 2,000 children—400 subnormal children, 200 certified mental defectives and about 1,400 normal children. The great majority of the 400 children who were presented by the teachers on the ground of mental insufficiency were found to suffer from mere dullness, backwardness or special and limited defects rather than from mental deficiency. Only 24 passed the medical examination for admission to a mentally defective school. Mr. Burt says there is a striking disagreement as to where the line between the defective and the ordinary child is to be drawn and remarks that school progress is only a very indirect measure of mental ability or defect. His conclusion is that there is no one definite or constant mental characteristic in which children classed as mentally defective resemble one another and differ from ordinary children. In intelligence, as in every other quality, they overlap enormously with ordinary children and are not a separate class or species, but largely simply the inefficient tail-end of a more comprehensive normal group. Mr. Burt's report suggests the need of more delicate discrimination in the selection of children to be classed as mentally defective. He carried out an interesting investigation to show the influence of loss of sleep upon school work. In one school the children were divided into two groups. One group were allowed to sleep for two hours daily in school, the other group worked in the ordinary way. It was found that among the children who were allowed to sleep those who suffered most from lack of sleep at home gained greatly in general ability. In the worst cases the gain more than made up for the loss of time. Experiments of the same kind are going on, which Mr. Burt says may show that lack of sleep may be as damaging to school work as lack of food.—London Mail.

Brains and Colds.

It is believed that by the discovery of causes of "catching cold" which has just been made by Dr. C. M. Richter, it has been determined that the quick-witted and those who use their brains a good deal catch cold much more easily than those who do little brain-work and are mentally slow. Wherever a case was found of someone who was extremely susceptible to influenza or even simple cold, either that person was engaged in some professional work, or there was considerable tax upon him in factory or in office, or else his work required some especially keen exercise of the mind. The mentally heavy, slow-going kind of person very rarely has a cold. In working out this problem it was found that resistance to cold is not so much a matter of what one wears as of what one is. It is those people who suffer most keenly when it is very cold or very hot, who have a headache when they face a high wind, whose hair crackles with electricity when they comb it—in a word, it is those who are nervous and highly organized who most readily fall victims to the insidious "colds in the head."

Killing an Exact Science.

Said a man who knows mechanics as an open book: "The acme of preciseness and the perfection of all mechanism known to the human race is devoted to the art of killing men."

He was talking to me about the extreme exactness of range-finders for big guns—of which he has been asked to construct 100. "I know of no other thing in the wide domain of mechanics," said he, "that is worked out with so great care as these range-finders."

He told me that with that instrument it is possible to plant a shot within one yard of the desired target ten miles away. When I remarked that that required unusual delicacy, this scientist replied: "No, not delicate, because one of these finders weighs one hundred pounds, but they must be mechanically exact and perfect."

One might almost be tempted to say that killing men in war has become an exact science.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Ultimate Condition.

A soldier of the allies was dodging German shells; it couldn't have been hotter along the Dardanelles. The gun which did the business was somewhere on the Rhine, but every time it thundered it hit the allies' line.

The soldier burrowed deeper within his little trench; he watched the counter missiles responding from the French. The range was something awful for shooting on the fly, and shells as big as barrels were arching through the sky.

The soldier thought of Caesar, who once divided Gaul; he thought of Agamemnon before the Trojan wall. He thought about the progress in military craft, and in the din of battle he actually laughed.

"It won't be long," he reasoned, "until we shoot it all; the Briton on his island, the Frenchman in his Gaul. We'll all set up our cannon upon our native loams, and hammer one another from our respective homes."

Message No. 1

To the Business Men of Charleroi

Business fights shy of dead towns. A sure sign of a dead one is the lack of local pride. People who live in a live, prosperous town show it. Their stores are attractive, their streets clean, their homes are well painted.

Nothing shows a lack of pride, a lack of prosperity, like paint-hungry buildings. Let's paint up. As the most durable and economical paint, we recommend and Dutch Boy linseed oil, mixed right on the job, to suit the job. Have your painter tint it any color you wish. Consult your paint dealer on that job of painting you have in mind. Today's the day.

NOTED FOR SMALL THINGS

Great Men Not Always Held in Memory on Account of Deeds of Consequence.

It is said that the duke of Wellington once chaffed Lord Brougham as a man who at one time bade fair to go down to future ages as a famous advocate of law reform and popular education, but who after all, would owe his renown to the name of the vehicle which had received his name

Brougham retorted by saying to the duke that his name, which promised to descend to after-times as the hero of a hundred battles and the liberator of Europe, was to survive as the appellation of a certain kind of boots. The story is a good one, whether true or mythical, and suggests to us some of the strange ways in which men become famous.

One person acquires celebrity by his giant intellect, as Webster or Calhoun; another, by his dwarf stature, as Count Borowalski, or Tom Thumb.

There are great men who are known to fame hardly less by their physical or moral eccentricities than by their intellectual might Such was the case with Lord Brougham, who was long associated in men's minds with the queer twist of his nose, on which Punch hung so many conceits; and Lord Peterborough, who, walking from the market with a fowl under one arm and a cabbage under the other, quite threw into the shade Lord Peterborough, the hero of Almanza

The same was the case with the great duke of Marlborough, whose hagglings with the Bath chairmen and acts of petty avarice were talked of long after the conqueror at Blenheim and Malplaquet was forgotten

Wear Yellow to Repel Mosquitoes.

Wear yellow this summer and you will escape mosquito bites, no matter how many of these insects are buzzing around. The mosquito hates yellow On the other hand, if you wear dark blue you are sure that all the mosquitoes in the vicinity will swarm to you. If you talk much as you sit on the porch in the evening, mosquitoes will sting you, while the silent members of your party will sit in peace, for the mosquito loves the sound of talking—New York World.

Activities of Women.

Women in Germany are now being given military training

The pulse in women is from one to five beats higher than in men

Because his wife moved 39 times in 10 years, E T. Turner of Camden, N. J., is seeking for a divorce

Four policewomen have been appointed in Pittsburgh to censor all magazines sold in that city

For conspicuous bravery in the performance of duty, Mrs Isabella N Goodwin, a police matron, has been placed in the honor regiment of the New York police force

Miss Rose Pitonoff of Dorchester, Mass., was the first swimmer of either sex to cover the 12 miles between Charlestown bridge and Boston, although many famous home and foreign watermen had previously attempted the feat.

Women are now being employed in all the large factories in England where munitions are manufactured

A woman must be between the age of thirty and forty to be eligible to appointment on the Chicago police force.

Miss A Florence Yerger, Philadelphia's most successful woman lawyer, has more business than she can handle herself and has been compelled to open three offices in different parts of the city.

Since the dominion of Canada was created forty-one years ago there have been only 443 divorces granted, while in the United States in the same period of time the courts have dissolved 1,274,341 marriages.

THOUGHT SHE COULD NOT LIVE

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Unionville, Mo.—"I suffered from a female trouble and I got so weak that I could hardly walk across the floor without holding on to something I had nervous spells and my fingers would cramp and my face would draw, and I could not speak, nor sleep to do any good, had no appetite, and everyone thought I would not live. Some one advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had taken so much medicine and my doctor said he could do me no good so I told my husband he might get me a bottle and I would try it. By the time I had taken it I felt better. I continued its use, and now I am well and strong.

"I have always recommended your medicine ever since I was so wonderfully benefitted by it and I hope this letter will be the means of saving some other poor woman from suffering."—Mrs. MARTHA SEAVEY, Box 1144, Unionville, Missouri.

The makers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have thousands of such letters as that above — they tell the truth, else they could not have been obtained for love or money. This medicine is no stranger — it has stood the test for years.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Common Experience.

"As you travel through this vale of tears, is your faith in humanity strengthened or weakened?" asked the inquisitive person.

"It's a queer thing," answered the man who is easily worried. "I'll meet half a dozen people who are the right sort and strictly on the square. Then I'll run across a skunk who makes me forget all about the other six"

Analysis of the Apple.

Ripe apples contain about 83 per cent water, 0.4 per cent of protein, 12.5 per cent of carbohydrates, 3 per cent of ash, and 2.7 per cent of cellulose. They contain a fuel value of 290 calories to the pound. Of the carbohydrates, from 50 to 75 per cent is sugar and the remainder is made up of vegetable gums or pectose. Pectose is the substance which causes fruit to jelly. The amount of cellulose in fruit varies at different stages of ripeness and in different varieties. Ripe apples contain more sugar and less celluloise and acid than green apples

TAKING 'N' FROM DAMN

DOES NOT TAKE THE CURSE OFF BY ANY MEANS.

When One Doesn't Care a— Well, Even "Tinker's Dam" Is Bad Language to Say the Best About It.

A contributor to the Sun grieves over the ignorance of those who assume that 'tinker's dam' is a profane expression A tinker's dam, says he, was a chunk of dough or batter used before the days of muriatic acid to keep the solder from spreading; and as the solder commonly did spread nevertheless, the tinker's dam was as nearly worthless as the common expression of disesteem for it implies He differentiates it from the common or garden damn and says: "There is no profanity about it

But not to care a tinker's dam is just as profane as not to care a maverick damn, unbranded with ownership by tinkers or others Taking the "n" out of damn does not take the curse off If it is profane not to care a damn, it is just as profane not to care a whiffer, a jabberwock, a goop, or any other illegitimate and unsanctioned word When one stentoriously enunciates his refusal to appraise the article under discussion at the value of a damn, he is not swearing or cursing; he is literally using bad language, for, in the sense he means, there is no such noun as damn. We know what a tinker's dam is, but what is a damn? When one says he does not care a whoop, he is far more definite, for there is such a thing as a whoop. Whence arose the idea that not caring a damn was being profane, and why do persons who do not care one plume themselves on their devilishness?

It is not profane, but it has the sound of being profane, and that is all that is needed An individual who would not for the world have used blasphemous language used to relieve his feelings by pronouncing the name of one of Wagner's operas in a tone that caused neighboring windows to fall in, and "Gotterdammerung" gave him as much satisfaction as if he had violated a commandment And who was the man who always swore by Charles G D Roberts and Josephine Dodge Daskam because they sounded so profane? There is an excellent Methodist in this town who severely reprehends profanity whenever he hears it, but who produces all the effect of shocking blasphemy by the imbittered emphasis he lays on the exclamation, "For government's sake!" Colonel Roosevelt plumes himself on his abstinence from profanity, but none of the unregenerate ever got such satisfaction out of a real cuss word as he does out of "By Godfrey" No, tinker's dam belongs in the comfort-giving galaxy of profane refuges for the emotions; and that is the worst you can say of the other damn —New York Times

Mysterious Zones of Silence.

A meteorologist of Zurish, Dr A de Quervan directs attention to a new theory which he calls a zone of silence. He says that strong noises like explosions or the sound of cannons, while heard in a normal way in their immediate neighborhood, are not heard in a distant zone even when most intense

It is now known as a historical fact that Frederick the Great on August 17, 1760, won the battle of Liegnitz because the Austrian generals Daun and Lasen asserted that they had not heard the sound of cannons. It was supposed at that time that the statement of the Austrian commanders was an untruth, but it is now believed that a zone of silence existed. Similar phenomena have been observed recently. In 1908, when the Jungfrau railroad was being built in Switzerland, a fearful detonation took place, caused by the explosion of 25,000 kilograms of dynamite. The noise was heard at a distance of 30 kilometers, but not at 140 kilometers Strange to say, however, the noise was heard 50 kilometers from the last named zone.

The Bible in Russia.

The holy synod at Petrograd has been busily engaged in the work of producing popular editions of the Bible These are being widely distributed by the Orthodox church among soldiers on the battle field as well as to the sick and wounded Various Russian Red Cross aid associations are including Bibles and Testaments in their parcels of 'comforts' for troops at the front, and as the available stock of the British and Foreign Bible society has become exhausted, the holy synod is undertaking the work of printing fresh editions. Should this wave of enthusiasm for the propagation of the Holy Scriptures prove more than a passing phase we may look forward to a revival of intelligent religious instruction in Russia.

Novel Porch Light.

A porch lamp of a new type, just placed on the market, is made to be installed inside the building so that it is not only protected from the weather, but serves to illuminate the hall or front room as well as the porch. The lamp is mounted inside the wall adjacent to the porch. Part of the light is diffused through the room while a part of the horizontal rays are transmitted through a 1½-inch tube to a globe mounted on the outside of the [illegible] with the aid of a reflector it is uniformly distributed over the porch.—Popular Mechanics.

Use Zinc as Nuggets.

A shoveler in one of the Joplin zinc mines who had seen in the movies how the gold miners bought what they needed with gold nuggets, recently laid a small chunk of zinc ore on a bar counter and called for a beer. The bartender served the drink to him and laid down 20 cents in change, and of course the crowd laughed and cheered.

Such is the spirit of the Joplin zinc boom, with crude zinc ore now worth seven cents a pound, which is about 50 per cent higher than the refined product spelter has averaged for many years.—Wall Street Journal.

Charleroi People Come Out as Frankly Here as Elsewhere.

Charleroi people publicly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. This paper is publishing Charleroi cases from week to week. It is the same everywhere. Home testimony in home papers. Doan's are praised in thirty thousand signed statements, published in 30000 communities. Charleroi people are no exception. Here's a Charleroi statement.

Mrs. W. L. Evans, 101 Lookout avenue, Charleroi, says: "One of the family works among turpentine and oil and that affected his kidneys. He complained of a heavy, dull ache across his back and was annoyed by irregular passages of the kidney secretions. Several years ago he tried Doan's Kidney Pills, which he got at Piper Bros.' Drug Store, and they proved to be the very medicine he needed. I am glad to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, as I know they are a good household medicine."

Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Evans recommends. Foster Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

VICTORY ACHIEVED BY TACT

How Explorer Overcame the Objections of South American Natives to Face Camera.

After his startling experience, when he tried to photograph a group of South American savages, Mr. Algot Lange visited the Indians in their retreat and, after studying his hosts for several days persuaded them to pose for him. He gives an account of his success in his book, "The Lower Amazon":

I judged it to be the proper moment for taking photographs because many of the more critical Indians were away working on a large canoe. It was a risky act to bring forth again "the little black thing that grows big and has an evil eye," but it was of vital importance for me to record my sojourn on a photographic film.

Slowly I lifted the camera out of the bottom of the knapsack. I took the back off and held the open kodak in front of the chief's eyes so he could see the empty bellows. He nodded and touched it. The tickling sound of the shutter amused the chief, and he imitated the sound by saying, "Tick! Tick!" Then I set the shutter on a time exposure, and let them look through the lens. That also pleased them. The chief even called the camera marakab, or plaything. I felt rather safe, and ventured to roll a film in place and set the shutter for business. I pointed it at the chief as he sat in the middle of the clearing, and saying, "Tick! Tick!" a number of times. I finally pressed the bulb.

Once only did I come near a break in their confidence. When I walked down the clearing and focused the chief and the man with the withered arm, who were standing near one of the tribal prisoners, they suddenly rushed toward me, but an assuring "Tick! Tick!" fortunately pacified them. The men objected to the motion-picture camera, and I was forced to give a few yards of the yellow ribbon to each member of the tribe before handing the machine. The innocent Indians wrapped themselves in the invaluable film and crowded round the camera while I sang, "Take Me Back to New York Town," and turned the crank.—Youth's Companion

BETTER HOUSING IN INDIA

Government Is Giving Its Attention to Matter That Has Been Too Long Neglected.

One of the most prominent features connected with the present development of India is the zealous attention paid in some of the larger cities to providing more sanitary housing accommodations for workmen, says the Building Age. The need of this may perhaps be more readily understood by the statement that out of the total population of Bombay, 76 per cent live in one-room tenements, and many of the rooms are occupied by more than one family.

The tenement buildings in some instances are said to have their rooms constructed like the steerage quarters of a ship: that is, with bunks one over another. Bedrooms and kitchens are sometimes combined. Between the buildings are narrow passageways into which all manner of refuse is thrown by the tenants and which are used for drainage purposes. That these dwellings are unfit for human habitation is well recognized by the municipal authorities of Bombay, and in order to provide better accommodations, sanitary "chawls" or tenements have been built for nearly twenty thousand persons. A "chawl" in India means a building so constructed as to be suitable for letting in separate tenements, each consisting of a single room or of two rooms, but not of more than two rooms.

Frightful Record of Waste.

It is estimated that one-third of the gold and silver of the great Comstock lode was thrown away, and only a little can be recovered. Some authorities, doubtless pessimists, declare that for every five tons of coal used in industry in this country, two tons are wasted at or near the mine, lost in mining. Some of the finest natural gas wells on the continent "blew" their treasures into the air for days, weeks or even months before being capped.

Agricultural land, rightly used, renews its fertility year after year, and produces as good crops after 40 centuries as when first put under the plow. The mine has only one crop. All the more need that this crop shall not be wasted.

Coffin Made for Darwin Not Used.

The funeral took place at Downe churchyard, near Bromley (Kent), of John Lewis, aged eighty-one, carpenter, who made the coffin in which it was intended that Charles Darwin should be buried. It was afterward decided, says the London Daily Mail, to bury Darwin in Westminster abbey, and the coffin was not used, being subsequently exhibited in the district as a curiosity. Mr. Lewis twenty-five years ago made coffins for himself and his wife, and these were kept in their cottage.

The Woolwich arsenal in England covers 600 acres. Here are made guns of all sizes, every form of military wagon, shot, shell, torpedoes, cartridges, bullets, war signals, life-saving rockets, and high explosives. The arsenal is divided into three main departments—the royal gun factories, the royal carriage department, and the royal laboratory.

WESTMINSTER GUILD OBSERVES ANNIVERSRY

Washington Avenue Church Chapter Goes Over History—Three Charter Members Still in the Organization.

The Westminster Guild of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church, held an interesting meeting in the Sabbath school room of the church Tuesday evening, it being the 10th anniversary of the organization. The meeting was carried out in the form of a home coming affair. Invitations were sent out to all the former members requesting their presence and while many could come in person others were only able to send greetings and good wishes to the young women. Letters were read from forfmer members from California to Massachusetts, and the letters proved an interesting part of the meeting.

The history of tfhe organization brought out the following facts: It was organized by the late Mrs. G. G. Kerr in the year 1905, under the name of the "Young Ladies' Circle", and was composed of ten members. Upon her death the name was changed to "The Katherine Kerr Circle", and two years ago it was affiliated with the "Westminister Guilds of the Presbyterian church", under the present name of The Katherine Kerr Memorial Chapter of the Westminster Guild. Three of the charter members are still in the organization, Mrs. Arthur Mitsch, Miss Grace Gelder and Miss Neil Ryland. Miss Gelder, it was found, has attended every meeting of the organization since its inception. A travelogue entitled "The Spirit of the Westminister Guild," was presented, under the direction of Miss Marie Whitehead, by the folowing young women: Misses Bess Richey, Emma Clutter, June Swan, Genevieve Nutt, Sophia Michener, Bessie Johnson, Freda Blank, Anna Blasick and Louise Brewir.

Music was furnished by Miss Emma Clutter and Mrs. Thomas Barger. During the reading of a message, the last given to the young ladies by the late Mrs. Kerr, a consecration meeting was held that proved to be a fitting climax to an inspiring program. During the social hour a large center piece with 10 candles proclaimed the years of the Guild. The organization has now the largest membership in its history with several names on the application lists.

ROADS IN SHAPE

also Charleroi, with improved roads Thomas Arrigo of Charleroi is the contractor.

A stretch of little over a mile is being built from Centerville to the Pike Run road, completed last year. The completion of this road will connect Centerville and the surrounding country with Coal Center and California. With the resurfacing of the Old National pike to Centerville, which will probably be done next year the pike already having been resurfaced to the top of the hill leading into Beallsville various points along the river will be connected by a short automobile ride with the county seat.

A mile of road is being improved by Reed, Liggett & Britt beginning at the end of the macadam road about five miles from Washington and extending towards Bethany. The grading has been completed and the work of seeding cure will soon begin.

About 125 feet of the road between Houston and Canonsburg at the Canonsburg end is being raised, which when completed will afford a much better approach to the street at the borough line of Canonsburg. The road will also be widened at this point. Hardy & Rankin of Canonsburg are the contractors.

In connection with the roads being improved several bridges have been built the past summer, all being of concrete.

As additions are built each year to the roads already completed it is only a question of a few years until the county will be covered with a network of good roads bringing distant points closer together and affording better trade facilities between the towns and the country.
